VETERANS CALL FOR PENSIONS INVESTIGATION

United States Proposes World Reduce Its Arms By One-third

Hoover Suggests Nations In Ten Years Save $12,000,000,000

At Geneva Conference France Rejects Plan to Cut All Armaments and Army and Naval Forces One-third; French Propose Airplane Internationalization

Canadian Press
Geneva, June 22.—A proposal for cutting the world's bill for armaments by one-third in the next ten years was presented by the United States at the World Disarmament Conference here today. It was immediately rejected by France.

"France will again raise the question of security," declared Minister of War Joseph Paul-Boncour.

The French delegation laid before the air committee of the conference proposals including internationalization of commercial airplanes and the placing of military planes larger than a specified size under control of the League of Nations.

WAR DEBT SAW-OFF
The government of the United States had taken pains to stress that war debts and reparations had never been discussed by its representatives here, but observers saw the proposal formulated by President Hoover as the price of reconsideration by the United States of war debts.

Sir John Simon, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, described the United States proposal as a valuable contribution which would receive careful consideration.

Associated Press
Washington, June 22.—President Hoover, in a sudden and dramatic announcement at the White House today, proposed principles for reducing the arms of the entire world by nearly one-third.

With Henry F. Simons, Secretary of State, at his side, the President read to a small group of newspapermen a statement saying "the time has come when we should cut through the bush" and adopt arms reduction calculated to save between $10,000,000,000 and $15,000,000,000 during the next ten years.

WOULD BAR GAS WARFARE
He proposed: Abolition of all tanks, chemical warfare and large mobile guns. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

FORESTERS MEET IN WINNIPEG

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, June 22.—Hon. R. A. Hoey, Minister of Education of Manitoba, and Mayor Ralph H. Webb of Winnipeg, were made honorary members of the Canadian Order of Foresters today after they had welcomed the delegates to the fifty-third annual convention of the organization.

Official greetings were tendered by the mayor and Mr. Hoey to more than 300 delegates from all parts of the Dominion. High Chief Ranger W. M. Couper, Montreal, presided at the opening session.

HITLER TROOPS ARE MASSING

Ordered to Arm Themselves and Gather in Cities of Germany, Says Report

Associated Press
Berlin, June 22.—The Communist newspaper Rote Fahne today said Adolf Hitler's National Socialist legions had been ordered to report, armed, to their headquarters within twenty-four hours. Meanwhile the new German cabinet faced an apparently inevitable showdown between Hitler and the Reich on the display of national Socialist uniforms.

Yesterday evening the Nazis, Communists and police fought it out in many cities with guns and bloodshed. One Nazi was shot and killed in Berlin, and a young Nazi opponent was stabbed to death in Essen. Dozens were gravely injured.

ENUMERATORS FACE CHARGES

Alleged Two Vancouver Men Put Unchecked Names on Voters' List

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 22.—Information charging an attempt to obtain money by false pretences from the British Columbia Government were laid at police headquarters here today against T. P. Sweet and R. C. Parker, who were employed recently as enumerators on the voters' list. Summonses returnable on June 27 were issued.

It is alleged the men attempted to obtain money by listing names of voters whom they had not interviewed personally.

The amount involved in the charge against Sweet is $7.90, and against Parker, $14.40.

Enumerators were paid ten cents per name for their compilation of the voters' list in the district in which they worked.

STEEL COMPANY TO BE WOUND UP

Toronto, June 22.—The Algoma Steel Company was adjudged insolvent today by Mr. Justice Sedgewick. He issued an order that the company be wound up and the Chartered Trust and Executor Company, was named liquidator.

The Algoma Steel Corporation has its head offices in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

The application was made by the Cannelton Coal and Coke Company. The steel corporation is one of the largest of its kind in Canada.

REORGANIZATION
In making the application, William F. Farnes, president of both the steel corporation and the pettington company, said he believed unless some scheme of reorganization were established, the company would be liquidated.

Government Proposes Amalgamation of 309 Districts to Form Forty of Larger Area; Reduced Costs Desired

Edmonton, June 22.—Alberta proposes changing the present municipal district system to one of "enlarged municipal areas," according to a plan announced today by Premier Brownlee. Increased efficiency in administration and a saving of more than $500,000 will result if the plan is adopted, it is believed.

Under the plan 160 municipal districts, together with 143 improvement districts, would be amalgamated into some forty enlarged areas. The improvement districts are administered at present by the government. If the Legislature at its next session approves Premier Brownlee's proposal, a large part of the cost of government in the province will be eliminated.

THINK FRASER NOW AT PEAK

Valley Indians and Old-timers Believe Swollen River Will Soon Fall

More Rain Predicted For Vancouver, But None Anticipated in Interior

Canadian Press
New Westminster, June 22.—The consensus of opinion among Indians and old-timers of the Fraser Valley is that the river freshet has reached its peak this year and soon will show a steady decline.

After touching the nineteen-foot-one-inch mark on the Mission gauge at noon yesterday, following a sudden rise of nine inches overnight Monday and yesterday morning, the level dropped six inches and was touching the eighteen-foot-seven-inch mark today.

Continued cool temperatures in the Coast areas and moderate temperatures in the Interior assisted in checking the river's rise.

The high temperature during Tuesday was 83 degrees at Vancouver, over the lower reaches of the Fraser River. It was 68 at Kamloops, where .02 inch of rain fell and 73 at Prince George.

Associated Press
Albany, N.Y., June 22.—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt today called on Mayor James J. Walker of New York City to reply to charges brought against the mayor by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the committee of the Legislature investigating the Democratic administration of New York City.

Mr. Seabury, on June 6, advised the Governor that Mayor Walker, "in the course of his official conduct, has been actuated by improper and illegal considerations."

He contended Mayor Walker had failed to explain reasons for the receipt of almost $250,000 from Paul Block publisher.

The picture of Mr. Seabury, above, was taken in the court house after a session at which he questioned Mayor Walker for a lengthy period.

German Missionary Killed By Japanese Soldiers; British Residents Leaving District
Peiping, China, June 22.—British nationals were advised today to evacuate the territory around Tientsin, on the Korean border in Kirin province, Manchuria, following the alleged slaying of a German Catholic missionary, Father Conrad Rapp, by Japanese soldiers.

The British nationals were advised to leave because of fear of anti-foreign uprisings.

Missionary reports said Father Rapp was hurrying on horseback to the deathbed of a colleague stricken with typhus when he was halted at night by a Japanese military picket.

When he produced his identity card, reports said, the Japanese pulled him from the saddle, declaring he had insulted the imperial Japanese army by failing to dismount. The soldiers then beat him until he was unconscious, reports added, dragged him to a deserted stream bed and shot him, burying the body in the sand.

Photographs of the body showed the priest had been shot through the heart and abdomen and bayoneted in thirty places.

The German Legation here instructed the German Consul-General at Mukden to proceed to Chientao to investigate the case.

New Police Commission Again Holds Its Session in Camera

Will Ask Council For Supplementary Vote For Police Armaments

Indicating the adoption of a policy of holding meetings of the Police Commission in camera, the press was excluded again from the meeting of the board yesterday afternoon. It was the second session of the commission since the change from the elective system to the present one, in which the mayor, the police magistrate and county court judge comprise the body. The first meeting was also a private session.

Newspapermen applied for permission to attend the meeting, which was held in the mayor's office, but were refused admittance.

After the meeting the mayor announced the commission, on recommendation of Chief Thomas Healey, had decided to recommend to the City Council that a supplementary estimate for the police be made to provide for purchase of new armaments and the installation of bullet-proof windshields on police cars. It will amount to between $900 and $1,000.

PURSUIT GUNS
Sixteen revolvers are sought by the force to replace guns which are out of date. Two shotguns of the automatic pumping type are also needed for pursuit work.

As an outcome of a recent brush between police and bandits in automobiles, the chief recommended that bullet-proof windshields be purchased for the machines. The lives of three officers were endangered on this occasion, and only good fortune that none of the missiles fired at them went through the windshield was responsible for their safety.

MOORE PRACTICE
Included in the proposed supplementary estimate also will be funds for purchase of extra ammunition for target practice, which will be given greater attention in future.

Prior to the meeting the commissioners inspected the armaments on the force, and were satisfied that the recommendation of the chief was justified.

Another matter arising out of the recent episode of banditry was the claim of A. H. Peacey, Poul Bay drug store proprietor, for damages to his store in the gun battle. The decision in this claim was left by the City Council to the commission, but the board declined to make any recommendation, referring it back to the council.

MOURNED BY ALL IN MONTREAL

LATE FIRE CHIEF RAUL GAUTHIER

FIREMEN GIVEN GREAT FUNERAL

Montreal Pays Tribute to Heroism of Four Killed By Ship Explosion

Canadian Press
Montreal, June 22.—The admiration of a sorrow-stricken city was the reward of bravery today.

To the sound of muffled drums, between sidewalks crowded with grieving friends, and escorted by a great cortege, the bodies of four Montreal firemen, including Raoul Gauthier, director of the fire department, were borne to the grave. They were victims of the worst tragedy that has befallen the port of Montreal in recent years.

Firemen Paul Henrich, Louis de Brienne and Lucien Hamelin, killed with Director Gauthier when an explosion wrecked the floating drydock of Canadian Vickers shipyard and destroyed the oil-tanker Cymeline last Friday, were honored in death with a solemn requiem high mass, celebrated in St. James Cathedral by Mgr. Georges Gauthier, Archbishop Coadjutor of Montreal.

The bodies were later laid to rest by the side of comrades and had previously died in service, in the firemen's plot of the Cote des Neiges Cemetery on the slope of Mount Royal. Country-wide sympathy was evoked by the tragedy which took the lives of twenty-three employees of Canadian Vickers Limited as well as those of the four firemen.

Vancouver Druggists Limit Sunday Sales

Decide on New Policy as Result of Recent Prosecutions Under Lord's Day Act

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 22.—Retail druggists of Vancouver, members of the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association, will greatly restrict the list of articles sold on Sundays and thereby hope to avoid further prosecutions under the Lord's Day Act.

A committee appointed some time ago to study the situation, had brought in its recommendation, which has been communicated to individual druggists by Russell H. McDuffie, registrar of the association.

The druggists are asked "to refrain from selling on Sundays such merchandise as is generally sold by merchants who are compelled to remain closed on Sundays."

General observance of this formula would restrict business to drugs and medical and cosmetic supplies, confectionery, ice cream, soft drinks, etc., it is stated.

Druggists generally complain the action of the Attorney-General in issuing writs for prosecution under the Lord's Day Act was unfair because, it is claimed, there was no notice of intention to depart from a custom that had been recognized by succeeding governments for the last twenty-five years.

NEW VANCOUVER CUSTOMS HEAD

Vancouver, June 22.—After more than forty years of government service, G. A. Allen entered the Customs at this port since 1922, is about to retire, it is reported.

Though no official announcement has been made, it is understood Mr. Allen requested superannuation several days ago, and is expecting a reply soon. The question of his successor will be dealt with at Ottawa.

Mr. Allen entered the service of the Inland Revenue Department at Montreal March 23, 1888, and for years successfully hunted smugglers of the St. Lawrence River and the Great Lakes. His first station was at Windsor, Ont., his next at Hamilton, and his next at St. Hyacinthe, Que. In 1904 he was transferred to New Westminster.

He was appointed collector of inland revenue at Vancouver in 1910, and held that position until April 1, 1921, when the Inland Revenue Department was absorbed by the Customs Department. He was then appointed a special inspector.

Associated Veterans Suggest Searching Investigation of Allegations of Misrepresentation in Many Cases in Which Great War Pensions Were Granted in Canada

BOARD CHAIRMAN TELLS OF DISCOVERIES

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 22.—Declaring publicity given to allegations of fraud and misrepresentation in connection with war pensions cast a serious shadow on the administration of the Pensions Act, the Associated Veterans of Canada today issued a statement calling for an investigation of the charges.

The statement, signed by representatives of five groups, declared the Associated Veterans are not aware of the perpetration of wholesale frauds on the part of pensioners or applicants for pensions, and in any event have never been, nor will be a party to any such transaction.

The statement says: "The Associated Veterans, consisting of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League (which includes the tuberculous veterans' section), the Amputations Association, the Canadian Pensioners' Association of the Great War and the Sir Arthur Pearson Club of Blind Sailors and Soldiers, view with grave concern the statements made in certain newspapers regarding alleged extensive frauds in Canada's pension list. Apparently enough has been said both by newspapers and pension officials to warrant a complete investigation."

"The statements constitute a reflection on the integrity of all Canadian ex-service men and their organizations which are engaged in pension adjustment work."

"The Associated Veterans are not aware of the perpetration of wholesale fraud on the part of pensioners or applicants for pensions, and in any event have never been nor will be a party to any such transaction."

LAND SALES ARE HIGHER

Total For May Shows Increase Over Last Year in City

For the first five months of the year sales of real estate and property in Victoria were valued at $870,743. This figure is approximately the same as that for the corresponding period last year when the total was $870,755.

The month of May this year showed a 25 per cent increase over the same month of 1931, figures released by City Assessor Commissioner George Okeill this morning revealed. The totals were: May, 1932, $165,710; May, 1931, $132,585.

The grand total of land exchanges during the first five months, including those by transfers and wills and probates amounted to $1,422,843, as compared with $1,560,641 for the same period in 1931.

Democratic Group Opposes Roosevelt

Associated Press
St. Paul, Minn., June 22.—New forces won control of the Democratic Party in Minnesota's state wide primary Monday and to-day the nominal head of the movement, the returns as repudiation of the state party's prior endorsement of Franklin D. Roosevelt for the United States presidential nomination.

John E. Ragan, who won the nomination for governor and led a faction, the "rumpers," to a surprise victory, declared the group would demand seats for an unopposed delegation favorable to Alfred E. Smith at the Chicago convention.

"This Boy Will go to College"

The hand of fate selects one lad and rejects another—why?

In each case the father intended to send his boy to college. Both realized the value of a college education for the lad, but—in one case, something happened. Perhaps the father died before he could complete his plans. Perhaps he did not have the money when his boy (or girl) was ready for college. Other demands on his resources may have stepped in and said "no."

Now you may see your child's face when college time comes—when the final training for a successful professional career is begun.

RODEO RIDERS SEIZE HORSES

Prairie Cowboys, Demanding Pay For Work, Hold Animals at Toronto

Canadian Press
Toronto, June 22.—The never-say-die spirit of the Canadian west has manifested itself here in unusual fashion. An even score of cowhands from southern Saskatchewan and Alberta today were tending sixty-five bronchos on the outskirts of Toronto. They rode off with the animals when they did not get paid for their week's work at a local stampee and rodeo. And they have declared their intention of keeping the bronchos until the rodeo authorities "come across."

Nursing bruises, broken bones and stiff joints as evidence of the ride they got all week on the untamed horses, the cowhands were unwilling to take non-payment lying down. They had traveled far to make the show, and many had arrived penniless. Pay-day came, but they claim the money only went far enough to pay off the cowboys from south of the international border.

Prospectors Hurry to Nuka District of Alaska, Where Rich Find Made

Associated Press
Seward, Alaska, June 22.—Spurred on by reports of a fabulously rich gold strike, prospectors are rushing into the Nuka district, seventy miles west of here. The discovery was a body of free gold ore, estimated to run $50,000 in value to the ton.

Airplanes are being used extensively to carry gold seekers to the scene of the find and boat owners are rapidly putting their craft in condition to accommodate the rush of passengers. The free gold occurrence was found in a deep tunnel of the Babcock and Downie mine and rich specimens of float were uncovered by Charles Goyne. Regarded as one of the most promising strikes in Alaska, the Nuka district has already produced much gold.

Fur Prices Break Badly in Montreal

Montreal, June 22.—A turnover of $189,000 at yesterday's auction of furs brought the total for the first two days up to $400,000, it was announced. The closing will take place to-day.

Official notification to the trade was as follows: "As compared with our March sale, we report beaver blankets declined 5 per cent. All other grades declined 10 per cent. Selling basis, blankets $18 to $22.25; extra large $14 to $18; extra large and large $12 to $14.50; medium $6.50 to $9; small $4 to $5.50. Others declined 15 per cent. to price, extra dark $30; red fox, all grades and sections declined 10 per cent. Ermine were neglected and declined 15 per cent; fisher remained unchanged with a top price of $96."

"Seventy-five per cent of the 10,000 beaver pelts offered were sold to-day, 67 per cent of the 700 otters; 51 per cent of the 2,850 red foxes; 23 per cent of the 83,730 ermine skins, and 88 per cent of the 210 fishers."

"In addition, 270,000 muskrats, 1,325 martens, 320 stone martens, 300 Jap martens, 1,000 Jap minks and 10,860 minks will be put on sale."

PREMIER TOLMIE TRAVELS EAST

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, June 22.—On his way to Ottawa, where he will confer with the Dominion Government, Hon. S. P. Tolmie, Premier of British Columbia, spent a short time in Winnipeg yesterday evening.

On Monday Premier Tolmie attended the conference of western premiers at Regina.

In Ottawa he will discuss unemployment and present the views of British Columbia lumbermen on proposals to be laid before the Imperial Economic Conference.

Hon. A. E. Brownlee, Premier of Alberta, also spent yesterday in Winnipeg, but had no public engagements.

SAYS CONFESSION WAS FALSE ONE

Associated Press
New York, June 22.—The New York Daily News in a copyrighted story yesterday said John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk, Virginia, boat builder, had repudiated his confession of having perpetrated a hoax in the Lindbergh baby abduction case.

Through his attorney he said he had acquiesced in police demands for a confession "after eight days of the Spanish Inquisition, to escape further punishment," the paper said.

Curtis is scheduled for trial June 27 on a charge of obstructing justice.

LYNCHERS FOILED

Leon, Spain, June 22.—(Associated Press)—Socialists in the nearby town of Villaseca tried to lynch all the Communists in the town to-day after a Communist had wounded a Socialist during a political dispute. The lynching was prevented by the civil guards.

AUTO PIONEER PASSES AWAY

Alexander Winton Known As First to Manufacture Cars to Sell Commercially

Associated Press
Cleveland, O., June 22.—Alexander Winton, pioneer automobile manufacturer, died yesterday evening, the day after his seventy-second birthday. Mr. Winton was known as the first man who ever manufactured an automobile to sell commercially. He began the manufacture of motor cars in 1894, after establishing the Winton Bicycle Company here in 1890.

Long before the world ever dreamed of the part automobiles were to play in modern life, Winton was building cars in a little Cleveland factory, and his first automobile was running on the streets of this city as early as 1895.

By 1908, while the infant industry was still generally confined to "one-lungers" and "two-lungers," according to the number of cylinders, Mr. Winton had built an eight-cylinder racing car.

BORN IN SCOTLAND

—He was born in Grangemouth, Scotland, and received a common school education. He first married in 1888, the union yielding four daughters and two sons. His first wife died, and in 1908 he married La Bell MacGlashan, daughter of a Scotchman, who was his second wife. He had two daughters of that marriage died.

After beginning the manufacture of motor cars in 1894, he incorporated the Winton Company in 1897, and later became its president. He established the Winton Marine Oil Engine Works in 1912. He was a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and a past president of the Lake Yachting Association of Cleveland.

MALTA HAS NEW CABINET

Canadian Press
Valetta, Malta, June 22.—Sir Hugo Mifsud, leader of the Maltese Nationalist Party and formerly head of the ministry, yesterday formed a cabinet to succeed the government of Premier Lord Strickland, which was defeated in the Maltese general election a few days ago.

Sir Hugo included Dr. Mizzi, leader of the extreme section of the Nationalist Party, in the cabinet as Minister of Industry and Commerce.

Sir Hugo has declared that no Nationalist ever favored annexation of Malta to Italy, despite the fact that Malta's population of a quarter of a million is largely Italian in descent. His electoral programme affirmed the party's continuing loyalty to the British crown, but demanded recognition of Malta as a self-governing unit of the British Commonwealth of Nations, with a status similar to that of southern Rhodesia.

NO EVIDENCE FIRE WAS SET

Winnipeg, June 22.—That there were no indications the fire had been set was the testimony of Deputy Fire Chief John Miller at the trial of four Toronto men, Fred Brown, Charles Spratt, Leo Wadden and Laura Rolland, on charges of arson, conspiracy and attempt to defraud five insurance companies of $100,000. He was a witness at the trial in the summer assizes here before Mr. Justice F. J. Montague and a jury.

The charges against the four accused arose from the destruction here last June of the Porter Block, in which stocks of the Toronto Quilting Company were stored. The prosecutor scored a point when the court upheld his right to ask the witness, the Winnipeg deputy fire chief, whether he believed, as a result of his experience, that a delayed fire could be set. The witness replied in the affirmative and explained it would burn down and reach inflammable material several hours after the candle had been lighted. But he added he had found no evidence of candles in the Porter Block fire.

ACCLAMATION EXPECTED

Winnipeg, June 22.—(Canadian Press)—Conservatives of Manitoba will not contest the two deferred election constituencies at The Pas and Rupert's Land, it was made known at party headquarters here to-day. Nomination day in these two northern ridings will be July 4 and polling day July 14. There will probably be an acclamation in Rupert's Land, but in The Pas the Independent Labor Party will put up a man against Premier Bracken.

DAVID S. SPENCER

THIS COMMUNITY HAS VERY RARELY been called upon to suffer the loss of one more widely esteemed than David S. Spencer. During his life-long residence here he had developed into something of an institution in his own personality, an institution of good-fellowship, innate kindness, toleration and industry, and his passing leaves a gap which will not soon be filled. It was not at all surprising that when he was stricken with the illness which ended his life yesterday, there was an unlimited manifestation of the affection in which he was held, not only in this city but elsewhere, and a very profound hope that his stalwart constitution would win the grim battle in which it was involved. It will be difficult for his many friends to reconcile themselves to his disappearance from the busy stage with which he was so long associated and on which his numerous admirable qualities enabled him to play a notable role.

Mr. Spencer's connection with the business life of Victoria was so generally understood that it would be superfluous to refer to it here in any detail. Like his brothers he was virtually cradled in the enterprise founded by his father, and saw it grow from small beginnings into one of the great emporiums of the Dominion. In that growth he played an important part, and he did not spare himself in his efforts to justify to the fullest extent the vision of the remarkable man who some sixty years ago laid the foundation of the establishment to which "Dave" Spencer—as he was known far and wide—gave every ounce of his energy and zeal.

He was a hard worker who took infinite pleasure out of his work and no little pride in the occasion of it. This indeed was his prescription for success and all history proves the soundness of it. He possessed a fine business sense, and his judgment on subjects of commercial import was valued highly by leaders of industry. His loss will be keenly felt by the whole business community, but especially by those with whom he was in daily contact, who will miss his striking personality, experienced instruction, sympathetic interest and invincible enthusiasm.

Mr. Spencer took no active part in public affairs, and his only connection with any other organization than that in which he was a partner was with the agricultural association of which he was a director and to which he gave uniform hearty support. But indirectly he was interested in everything in which the human equation counted for something, whether in business, politics or sport; whether in city or rural life. He was intimate with public men of all parties, and in all spheres, and no constituent followed their activities more closely; none was fairer in his appointment of definite credit or blunt criticism.

His sense of humanity, indeed, was one of his outstanding characteristics. His kindness was proverbial and he was ever ready to alleviate distress and suffering. It would be impossible within the space of this tribute to enumerate the instances in which he contributed effectively to the relief and happiness of others, contributions which he would be the last to mention since they sprang from a naturally sympathetic nature. These he regarded as a matter of course, an obligation which devolved upon everybody who was in a position to discharge it. His most imposing monument will be the grateful recollection, cherished in innumerable hearts, of his thoughtfulness for others, of the good cheer with which he illuminated many sombre pathways and lightened many loads of privation and care.

To his widow, his revered mother, brothers, sisters, and other members of the family, the sympathy of the community will be extended in fullest measure in the deep sorrow which has overtaken them.

OTTAWA PRELIMINARIES

MANY CONFLICTING VIEWS WILL have to be reconciled at the Imperial Economic Conference next month. But much should be accomplished when representatives of governments and business men get together in an atmosphere of goodwill. Because the textile representatives of Canada and Great Britain were unable to reach an agreement in Montreal the other day there is nothing to suggest that a mutually-profitable understanding is impossible. The British delegates asked for a substantial cut in the tariff against their cotton products. The Canadian delegates replied that if they were to go the limit suggested, their business would be seriously damaged. Meanwhile, however, although they agreed to disagree, both parties will submit reports to their respective governments in order that the controversy may be re-examined at Ottawa. It is to be hoped matters will be amicably arranged there because, after all, the textile trade of both countries is a very important one—an especially important one to Canada, and our manufacturers naturally do not wish to lose ground unless they are persuaded this contribution will bring further benefits to the country as a whole.

Whether the very large increase in the duties on British textiles which the Bennett government imposed was necessary to save the Canadian textile industry or not is open to doubt. We were told two years ago that the Canadian dairymen were being positively driven out of business when they were getting only forty cents a pound for their butter. The duty was boosted from one to eight cents a pound; we do not know whether we are to assume that these same dairymen are now doing quite well on a twenty-cent-a-pound rate for their butter. This is, of course, by the way; but the experience of the past eighteen months naturally tends to make the taxpayers sceptical when certain interests try to show that their only salvation is over high tariffs.

In these columns the other day we printed the tariff schedule of 1930 side by side with that now in operation to show the very large increases in the duty on British textiles. Here are a few more items which give a further illustration:

	1930	1932
Wool blankets	21 1/4	92
Wool piece goods, in the gray	11	49 1/2
Wool fabrics, overcoatings, for manufacture	24	89 1/2
Wool piece goods (no sale tax)	28	55 1/2
Wool overcoatings fabrics	28	93
Wool fabrics, high-grade suitings	25	60 1/2
Wool suits, made of English worsteds	26	86 1/2
Wool blazers	26	61

It should be noted that the customs tariff of 1930 was protective. It gave our textile manufacturers a margin of about twenty-five per cent on which to compete with goods imported from Great Britain. A study of the comparative duties quoted above will perhaps help the average individual to decide whether the 1932 duties are only protective, or whether they are prohibitive.

When Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin was discussing the forthcoming conference in the British House of Commons the other day he observed that while Great Britain heartily appreciated the preference given to British goods in the markets of the Dominion, free entry into the markets of the United Kingdom which Dominion products had always enjoyed, now given preference under the new tariff, ought to be an inducement for the dominions to reciprocate in a more liberal manner than had been the case to date. Mr. Baldwin admitted the empire was singularly free from the most damaging forms of trade restrictions; yet at the same time there had been a marked tendency in recent years for heightening the barriers in the dominions—both against each other and against Britain. "We should ask the statesmen at Ottawa," he said, "to consider whether in their own interests as well as in ours they might in some directions have gone a little too far and too fast."

Another remark of Mr. Baldwin's should be noted. He warned that, unless agreement was reached at Ottawa, the exemption of empire goods, for which Britain's new tariff measure provides, will automatically end on November 15. Failure of the textile men to reach an agreement at Montreal brings us up sharply against this reminder.

HOOVER'S BOLD PLAN

AT WASHINGTON TO-DAY President Hoover outlined a proposal to reduce the armaments of the entire world by nearly one-third and thus pave the way for saving between $10,000,000,000 and $15,000,000,000 of the taxpayers' money in the next ten years. He would abolish all tanks, large mobile guns, and prohibit chemical warfare; cut by one-third all land armies over and above the so-called police component; by the same amount he would reduce the treaty number and tonnage of all battleships; reduce the treaty tonnage of aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers by one-fourth, and of submarines by one-third, with no nation having more than 35,000 tons of submarines. This plan of the President's was placed before the Geneva Disarmament Conference to-day. When it was shown to M. Paul Boncour, French Minister of War, he said: "This is absolutely unacceptable. France again will raise the question of security."

It ought to be fairly safe to predict that Mr. Hoover's proposal will be approved by the people of most countries who are staggering under the burden of taxation which an annual bill of $5,000,000,000 for armaments imposes. It is hardly likely that any governments, recognizing the economic plight with which they are confronted, will be critical of such a straightforward plan. But it is beginning to look as if France is determined, no matter what practical suggestions may be put forward, to remain obdurate and virtually go her own way armed to the teeth. Condemning this proposal out of hand may not mean that she will not change her mind eventually. She may wake up one of these days and wonder whether, after all, she is not playing the fool in an international sense as long as she thinks she can keep Germany in subjection indefinitely by armed force.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

ARE MODERN MEN TALLER?

UNEMPLOYED RELIEF
The Toronto Star

Premier Henry's announcement that nobody in Ontario will be allowed to starve is an official statement in recognition of the principle that the state cannot leave the hungry to their fate. It is to be hoped that Premier Henry was not, when he spoke, merely giving expression to a laudable feeling and using a bit of cheerful rhetoric. There is scarcely anybody who would see a fellow-creature starve before his eyes and do nothing by way of relief. The trouble is, however, that quite a bit of starving is done, but not before the eyes or in the presence of prosperous people.

NO USE ATTENDING CONFERENCE WITH HANDS TIED
The Toronto Mail and Empire

The United States favors the holding of a world economic conference on condition that reparations, war debts and excessive tariffs are deferred from discussion. If the Washington government entertains that view it should say now that it will not participate in the conference. The readjustment of the hopeless burden of international obligations, imposed by the World War is the first essential step to recovery which must be taken before adequate progress can be made in the right direction.

Loose Ends

June rain out this way and the meaning thereof—more wisdom from the New England lawyer—and some much sounder counsel from a local philosopher.

By H. B. W.

AS I LABOR over this column to-day I am raising out here, from June rain, which blurs the hills, badgers down all my roses, makes the giant foghorns bend over like solemn-faced old men with great drops dripping from their beards, keeps the robin which is nesting in the eaves (not eight feet from this typewriter) top of her babies all day, and stands up from the steaming ground a vapor which seems to hold all the accumulated perfumes of summer. Perhaps you don't know what June rain means out here. Possibly you imagine that the chief effect of June rain is to spoil a big cricket match. Probably you do not realize that it watered and cultivated all my vegetable garden yesterday so that it would last until I returned from my holidays in a fortnight; and now, of course, I shall have to cultivate it all again because, though you probably have never heard of it, it would never be cultivated after rain or it bakes. But in this June rain even my troubles are a small matter.

DOWN THE ROAD from me is a fellow who grows strawberries. Every day for some time he has been picking about $30 worth of strawberries. The trouble which those berries have cost him no one can estimate in money. He has cultivated them and pruned them and fertilized them, and now he has to fight against the weevil in their roots as a doctor might fight against the germs of a fatal disease. Just as his berries were coming into heavy bearing and he was selling $30 worth of them a day, those hot days arrived and burned up his garden patch. The days during which he could make $30 apparently would be few. Now this rain promises to extend the picking season for a full week or some $210. That means he will be able to take his flivver out of the barn, where it has been propped up on blocks since the first of the year, buy a license for it and operate it until the end of December at least. That will mean some extra revenue to the government in the license fee and the gasoline tax, and for the garage man down at the corner.

HE WILL ALSO make a little trip up the Island for a few days to get some fishing and that will mean a few dollars to some man who rents boats, to tourist camps and stores, to the fisherman who is going to buy some fishing tackle, a new pair of overalls, a dress for his wife and a pair of beach pajamas for his little girl. Before the summer is over all his $210 will be distributed in one way or another. But if this rain goes on too long, if it is not followed by a few hot berries and keep them from getting soft and moldy, there may not be another week's picking. There may be little or no picking at all, and then there will be no flivver license, no trip, no new clothes. There must be lots of other farmers about here like my neighbor. You see, therefore, that the rain which is pelted down outside there now concerns you as well as my robin, my roses and my foghorns.

MR. CALVIN COOLIDGE, possibly the most undistinguished and ridiculously lucky gentleman who has ever occupied the White House—he came in at the beginning of the boom and got out before it broke—has lately received one of his foolish notions. He said the United States must insist on the payment of its debts from Europe without reduction. Now on moral grounds I admit Mr. Coolidge has some claim, though I suspect that in his case his views spring less from morality than from the instincts of a small-time New England lawyer, who lived in half a duplex house until after he had cashed in by public writings on his term as President. I say Mr. Coolidge has a good case in morals since the money was borrowed for a European war, and if it is not repaid the American public will find itself paying almost the whole cost of the said war. This will be particularly annoying to the American taxpayer when he realizes that the nations which can't afford to pay him can afford to maintain huge armaments and prepare industriously for another war which, no doubt, they will also ask him to finance. (I fancy he won't because he will be too busy paying for the last one, which ended all war and made the world safe for democracy and certain other things.)

BUT WHILE MR. COOLIDGE may have a good case in equity, on the other hand he is trying to defy the ordinary laws of economics, which refuse to be defied for long. The real fact, which Mr. Coolidge and American politicians refuse to recognize, is that Europe can and will pay its debts if payment is allowed in goods, in real wealth. Instead, United States, already crushed by too much gold, insists that Europe pay in gold. Europe has the gold and it can't make the gold unless it can sell goods. But the United States won't take goods and the result is that the United States will get neither gold nor goods. As for the argument that the debtor countries could divert their military expenditures to the United States, it doesn't make the case either, for these expenditures, while idiotic and perhaps finally disastrous, are made in those countries. The money largely stays there to keep munition factories going, shipyards working, native soldiers marching. It can't be sent abroad to pay debts because it is not gold. Or at least it won't be. Mr. Coolidge is going to have to pay through the nose for the war out of that large income which he derives from writing in the Hearst papers on how Europe must pay for the war. I don't wonder Mr. Coolidge is annoyed. But if this unfortunate experience in money lending will prevent the United States from financing any more wars, it may be worth while after all.

AS I HAVE frequently observed before, I find more solid wisdom in the barber shop on this side of the Causeway than in the precincts of statecraft on the other side. I never visit the barber shop without securing an improvement to the inside as well as the outside of my skull, whereas I have frequently visited the Parliament Buildings without noting any particular change in either. For example, what would be safer, what could be wiser for a generation in torment than the advice of my boot-black philosopher friend, Mr. Posey, who said to me in the barber shop this morning: "No, sir, I'm not taking any interest in horse racing just now; that is, no technical interest. You see, when I take a technical interest for too long at a time it gets me going, as you might say because, being in good condition all the time, I'm high strung. When anybody takes an interest too long they get that way, kind of worked up over it. So every now and then I stop betting on horse races and start taking a technical interest in them. I keep track of the horse form and that, but I just lie back and take no technical interest. The trouble with the world, sir, is that people haven't got enough sense to lie back now and then and not take a technical interest in things."

THE ONLY THING to do," said Mr. Posey, with a great solemnity and a blacking brush poised impressively in midair, "is not to take anything seriously. It's taking things seriously that's ruined everybody these days. It's taking this depression seriously that is turning the world upside down. Yes, sir, what we got to do if we are going to get over this thing is to lie back and refuse to take any technical interest in it. That's what I do and never been under depressed in my life." On the whole, I think if we could move Mr. Posey to the other side of the Causeway and the higher inhabitants of that side over to the barber shop for a little while, everything would be all right.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

The Victoria Daily Times, June 22, 1907

(From The Times Files)
Full details have come to hand of the trail building which will be commenced on the West Coast early next week, and they go far to show the work will be a huge undertaking. The trail will be carried through a very rough country, past deep canyons and high bluffs, over creeks and rivulets, and large streams, which will necessitate the construction of bridges.

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Moderate to fresh winds, generally fair and warm.

The Pacific conference of the Brotherhood of St. Andrews, which opens in this city this evening by a reception in St. John's schoolroom, promises to be of an interesting and helpful nature.

Victoria is alive with interest in view of the approaching visit of H.H. Prince Pushimi, who will reach the C.P.R. wharf to-morrow afternoon at 6:30 o'clock on board the steamer Princess Victoria. Preparations for the reception are proceeding rapidly, and although by special request no large crowd will be presented, the welcome will be of a hearty and demonstrative character.

Bound for Australia, the steamer Aorangi, Capt. Phillips, sailed from the outer wharf last evening. She was loaded with 2,000 tons of goods, and carried 1,000 passengers. Among the latter was the All-Canada lacrosse team on its way to tour the Antipodes.

ESQUIMALT PLEBISCITE

To the Editor:—I was very interested to read in Saturday's Times and to read that he and a number of voters were not directly opposed to the beer parlor but to the number of licenses. Might I humbly suggest that the proper method to right what he calls "an intolerable situation," would be to lodge a petition to the Legislature, and request a reduction of licenses.

By having a vote it is just possible that investors who have put their all into the business through a previous majority vote are to be put out "lock, stock and barrel" overnight without a penny of compensation.

Full justice for one, though in accordance with Mr. Punnett's views, will vote "yes" on the 24th to uphold what is known all over the world as "British Justice."

WATER RENTALS

To the Editor:—While the Economy Commission is considering the information it has received from the various departments of the government at Victoria, and before it has prepared its report, I wish to call your attention to the position that exists in regard to the cheap rate at which the province is disposing of some of its natural assets. Take, for example, the water rentals that are collected from power companies. It appears to me that when compared with the rentals for water power in other provinces the rentals collected in British Columbia could very well be revised to the disadvantage of the water rental collected in

"THE MIDDLE WATCH" AND HOSPITAL AID

To the Editor:—The Naval Dramatic Society is producing the British nautical comedy, "The Middle Watch," at the Empress Theatre, Victoria, on June 22 to 25, that is, Wednesday to Saturday inclusive of this week, in aid of the Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals. The demands made on each of these hospitals are being increased owing to the unfortunate business conditions now prevailing, and any aid along good lines is most necessary and welcome. We know that the members of the Dramatic Society are working earnestly and unselfishly to put on a performance of merit and real entertainment. We ask all friends of the hospitals to go to the opening performance this evening, being certain that a good start by a full house on the opening night will create such public interest as to make the venture a success and ensure big audiences on each of the following nights.

THE ESQUIMALT BEER VOTE

To the Editor:—As a taxpayer of Esquimalt I would like to make clear to our soldiers and sailors who are stationed here that the beer parlor is not the subject of the plebiscite. It is common rumor on our streets that they are to be made a convenience of on the day of voting on the above subject, which I think is an insult to their intelligence, as I am sure that 90 per cent of them do not understand the situation of our taxpayers, or the affairs of the municipality, as it is not in their line, I would like to make clear to them a few things which as an intelligent body of men they should know, and on polling day help the underdog, who keeps up the tradition of our army and navy for fair play. In the first place since this depression and unemployment started numbers of the people here had to let their property revert to the municipality because of mounting taxation, and inability to sell. For the value of property here has gone down 50 per cent. In fact, you can't give property away. We certainly voted the beer parlors in, but the privilege was absurd. If the beer parlors were a good proposition Victoria would not have turned them down. This is not a prohibition movement or a curtailing of the liberty of the subject, as we have liquor stores where people can get all they want in a clean manner, without the scenes we see daily on our cars and streets with the morals of our children. I know personally numbers of soldiers and sailors that would like to see the parlors cut out for the sake of the children. There is not 5 per cent of our soldiers and sailors that go to the parlors, as they have their own cantens. There are not 5 per cent of the citizens that go there. We have to endure these parlors for the convenience of other municipalities and visitors, resorts other municipalities turned down. They reasoned that they would come to Esquimalt and keep their own districts clean. We have the same rights as other municipalities to be clean and decent. Why should we be burdened with the place to the detriment of our property and of our children. The people of Esquimalt look to our soldiers and sailors to help them to a square deal on polling day. Don't be made a convenience of by the opposition, but help us get this poison out of our system.

A. N. FRASER.

ESQUIMALT PLEBISCITE

To the Editor:—I do not agree with what "One who lives near a beer parlor" in his arguments and statements used in his letter published in Saturday's Times. In the first place, it is a recognized fact that the working man in Britain would never allow the liberty of purchasing his beer by the glass to be interfered with. By having this vote the citizens and liberty of the province is being interfered with. Because should he be compelled to buy his beer from the vendors, he would not be able to buy it cheaper, as stated in above-mentioned letter, for the very reason that he could not buy draught beer as he can at present in the beer parlors.

In reference to the statement re this plebiscite not being asked for if parlors had catered only for Esquimalt people, surely Esquimalt tradesmen do not confine their activities to Esquimalt only, and from on citizens from Saanich and Victoria who come to trade with them.

At the opening of last session of the Legislature the Lieutenant-Governor urged the necessity of cultivating the tourist trade. All efforts to destroy this appeal should be resisted.

No man having "three beers" would behave as suggested and this statement is as insulting to the citizens of Esquimalt and other cities as it is absolutely ridiculous. Any person acting as he stated does not do so on three beers, but is suffering from a mixture of hard and probably bad liquor supplied in "bootlegging joints" which the present refreshment parlor is endeavoring to keep out of action. Beer parlors are always unfairly blamed for such misdemeanors.

Like the rest of his letter the last paragraph is also misleading. He takes it upon himself to say what he will do, taking for granted that most of us in Esquimalt will do likewise and vote against a sane administration and not be misled by such misinterpretations. Why any person such as the writer of the letter referred to should dictate to me and to others and deny us the privileges we at present possess is beyond me.

I do not interfere with his desires or the desires of others. Surely even fair and right-minded citizens will agree and vote yes on the 24th.

WORKING MAN.
Esquimalt, B.C., June 20, 1932.

WORK PLAN ABANDONED

Vancouver, June 22 (Canadian Press)—The Vancouver council has decided to abandon a plan which has been considered for some time, by which those on relief would be given limited amount of work to pay for groceries, etc., until the province government enunciated its policy of unemployment relief. This action was taken by the council yesterday afternoon when the city engineer submitted a report on available work for the unemployed.

PUPILS PRESENT DANCE RECITAL

The home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Noel, Linden Avenue, was the scene of an interesting event Monday evening, when Miss Gwen Noel of the Russian Ballet School presented her pupils in a dance recital, fifty or more guests enthusiastically applauding the programme. A wide variety of dances was presented, including folk dancing, accompanied by Pipe Major Cameron, playing the bagpipes. Assisting artists included Miss Madge Wallace, Miss Sheila Allard, Miss Dorothy May Jones and Miss May Worlidge. The accompanists were Mrs. R. H. Adams and Mrs. D. Smith. L. B. Noel was the able chairman. At the close of the entertainment each of the performers was the recipient of a little French bouquet from Miss Noel, and the pupils presented Mrs. L. B. Noel, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Smith with bouquets of roses and carnations. Pipe Major Cameron was given a handsome clock, and Miss Gwen Noel with a beautiful bouquet of red carnations. Following the presentations refreshments were served.

SUNSHINE CAMP GREET VISITORS

Formal Opening By Mrs. W. G. Wilson Yesterday Drew Many Friends

Mothers and Babies Already Show Benefit of Restful, Happy Holiday

Despite the attempt of the elements to belie its name, the Sunshine Camp's formal opening yesterday afternoon drew a crowd of interested friends from the city, and the spirit of good fellowship and happiness radiated by the visitors and those in residence at the camp more than offset the shortcomings of the weatherman. Mrs. W. G. Wilson, president of the Women's Canadian Club, performed the opening ceremony in the presence of about fifty visitors from the city, with the seventeen mothers and twenty-three children who are enjoying the hospitality of the camp as interested spectators.

HUMANITARIAN WORK

Introduced by William Crouch, president of the Social Service League, Mrs. Wilson complimented the league on its humanitarian work, carried on in season and out of season. The Sunshine Camp was but one of its many undertakings, and she warmly commended the far-sighted generosity of those citizens whose donations made the camp possible, and the diligent work of the executive, with particular reference to Miss Snyder, the very efficient and capable secretary. Mrs. Wilson brought greetings from the club, and assured the league and camp committee of its sympathetic interest. The Sunshine Camp was performing a yeoman service for the mothers, helping them to establish new friendships and assisting them in bringing up healthy and intelligent children who would make good Canadian citizens.

Delicious tea was served in the big dining-room, the cheery fire and the fragrance of flowers arranged by Mrs. Hibbertson, Miss Inez Ker and Miss Kathleen Clay, lending a hospitable note of welcome. Mrs. M. G. Moore, Mrs. C. F. Hyndman, Miss Ogilvie, Mrs. C. D. Schield and Mrs. D. R. Ker, of the camp committee were responsible for the tea arrangements, and were assisted by Miss Snyder and Mrs. Kate Palmer, the new camp "mothers." Mrs. Jameson (Edna Jacques) added to the pleasure of the occasion by reciting several of her own charming poems.

After the formal proceedings, a collection was taken and the total reached $236. The grand total reached $236, this included a cheque for $150 from the King's Daughters, representing the cost of a life membership in the order presented to Mrs. James Stewart recently, the money to be devoted to the maintenance of one of the camp huts.

The cost of maintaining a hut at Sunshine Camp for one day is about forty cents; the complete two weeks' holiday is covered by a donation of less than $100. The family of Mr. and Mrs. Jameson, who are staying at the camp, and two children can be given a fortnight at the resort for approximately $100. This information was given out in making an appeal for financial assistance.

Yesterday's visitors seized the opportunity to inspect the whole camp, visiting the neat cottages and talking to the mothers and their babies, all of whom are already showing the benefits of the holiday which commenced for them last Tuesday. As a special treat chocolate bars were distributed to all of them, the gift of one of the visitors, a little attention which was greatly appreciated.

Garden Party At Mrs. R. W. Mayhew's

At the June meeting of the First United W.M.S. on Monday, it was announced that the young people's departments would have a garden party at the home of Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, Beach Drive, on Tuesday, June 28, from 3 to 9 o'clock, also that the annual open meeting of the W.M.S. would be held at Mrs. J. H. Fletcher's home, "Arran," on July 18. To this meeting an invitation is extended to the other organizations of the church.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. McLeannan, the devotional period being taken by Mrs. McCallum. Followed by prayer by Mrs. Howell and Mrs. Hoy.

Mrs. Mason of the First Baptist Church sang a solo, accompanied by Miss Smith. A splendid half-yearly report of the finances was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Campbell, and Mrs. Innes offered the dedicatory prayer. The talk on the Oriental Home Mrs. Martin was most interesting. Mrs. Todd asked the members to report visits made to the sick and to strangers. The work done by the supply committee was reviewed by Mrs. Schroeder, and Mrs. Nalmsmith gave a most interesting talk on Christian stewardship.

Presbyterian W.M.S.—The Presbyterian executive of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church, also the auxiliary president and supply secretary, will meet with Fairfield Auxiliary on Friday at 2:30 o'clock in Fairfield Church.

Musical selections were contributed by Mrs. Holt, a recitation by Mrs. Chappell, and Mrs. Baron won the contest.

NURSING SCHOOL NEEDS SUBSIDY

Government Control of Nursing Education Suggested By Miss Jean Gunn

Analyses Cost of Training Before Association Meeting in St. John

St. John, N.B., June 22.—"The fact that the Survey of Nursing Education which we are discussing at this meeting has been made and to a large extent financed by the nurses of Canada, is unquestionable proof there exists among serious-minded nurses from coast to coast the realization the time has come when nursing education must receive the same consideration as is now so generously given to the educational programme of other professions, many of which do not relate in such a vital manner to the welfare of the nation," declared Miss Jean I. Gunn, superintendent of nurses, Toronto General Hospital, who led a discussion of "Cost Analysis of Nursing Education" at today's session of the Canadian Nurses' Association convention here.

This question of costs, which is at the base of all branches of education, has not yet been satisfactorily dealt with in the nursing profession, although some Canadian nursing schools have been in existence fifty years, said Miss Gunn. The delay in placing nursing education on the same basis as other branches of instruction was due to historical reasons, she said. From pioneer days stress was placed on the actual bedside nursing of the patients in hospitals and little thought was given to the preparation of the nurses to whom that work was assigned. In 1873 the first nursing school was organized at St. Catharines, Ont., and from then on it was apparent the nursing in the hospital could be done more efficiently under the supervision of a separate school system, Miss Gunn said.

Governments and hospital trustees boards should both be persuaded of the necessity for placing a separate stress upon nursing schools, apart from their immediate usefulness as providers of nurses, Miss Gunn said. "Under a system of definite government control, it would be possible to develop in the schools for nurses a standard system of cost accounting. It is very logical to come to the conclusion that nursing schools should receive a government subsidy but it is not so easy to induce the government to arrive at the same logical conclusion. We will have to prove our case and the first step is to have the nurses of Canada learn to work together and to accept guidance and advice from those whose responsibility

Nurses' Convention in St. John Discusses Many Problems; Loan Fund

Canadian Press
St. John, June 22.—Reports of registered nurses' associations in all provinces were presented to the Canadian Nurses' Association, meeting in biennial convention here yesterday. These dealt largely with routine work of the provincial organizations and with reviews of annual meetings.

In Saskatchewan, representations have been made to the minister of public health requesting that only registered nurses be allowed to hold hospital positions in the province and recommending the discontinuance of training schools for nurses in hospitals having less than seventy-five beds.

A loan fund for unemployed nurses in Alberta was sponsored by the Edmonton, Graduate Nurses' Association. Nurses in permanent positions subscribe to this fund, safeguarded by a committee who grant loans to nurses needing financial assistance.

In British Columbia two principals of Vancouver schools are working with a committee of nurses to evolve a summer course for the high schools curriculum. An effort was made to obtain a summer course at the University of British Columbia, but conditions prevented the university from granting this, although it will do all possible to help nurses in the field to obtain their certificates by attendance at sessions.

Pioneer Square and Its Beauties; Are We Becoming More Religious? Simple Pleasures More Popular.

Dear Marje—Pioneer Square is the name given to a park lying between Rockland Avenue, Quadra and Broughton Streets. Originally it was planned as a cemetery, but it hasn't been used as such for years. Tombstones are there, but not obtrusive ones, if you know what I mean. They are old, and weathered, some are uneven, humped up on one side, because the ground is uneven and rolls in a natural sort of way. There are huge shady trees and one loses sight of the fact that it has been a cemetery.

You read the inscriptions on the stones with a friendly curiosity, as you might read the name of the owner of a house if it appeared on his gate. It is comfortable and friendly, but withal the visitors there must feel a certain reverence and respect, for one does not see untidiness nor slovenliness—no sprawling about on the grass, no orange peel or peanut shells on the gravel paths—it is more a place for meditation and quietude; the atmosphere of the cathedral that flanks it on one side, extended to the outdoors.

One should sit there on a fine Sunday evening and listen to the cathedral music. It would be particularly fitting and impressive, the biblical quotations written out on the facade of the church, read while sitting on one of the benches under the trees. They are: "I am the way, the truth and the light, I am the light of the world, I am the resurrection and the life."

And this train of thought leads me to wonder if we are becoming more religious-minded. Known as a generation of scoffers and agnostics, are we still to feel that religion offers more satisfaction than we realized?

Due, perhaps, to the inevitable changes that the population is responsible for is the fact that our pleasures are becoming more simple of necessity and our valuations are undergoing a change. Our natural tastes are simple. Instinctively we enjoy the simple things. Rather than routine European trips done in a routine way, we shall consult our own private preferences and endeavor to them. These may include an European trip, but it will be done in our own individual way rather than doing it as so and so did it, or because it is the thing to do, "be yourself!" That slangy, humorous phrase is what we will be, thanks to the depression.

A few Sundays ago, while on an outing, we met three separate families during the day, off on private family picnics. A few years ago, not more than two or three, these same families would have spent their Sunday quite differently. The children would have gone off with a nurse or governess and the parents would have joined a party of friends. But sans nurse, sans governess there is only one course to follow, and these families of whom I speak seemed to be having a thoroughly good time following it.

An elderly lady whom I know well and see very often, is in perfect accord with these changes, and knowing her Bible from A to Z she fits everything with Bible quotations. Apropos of this she pointedly quoted the following inoffensively beautiful verse: "It will make a man more precious than fine gold, even a man than the golden vessel of Ophir." Any more Scripture from me and you will be convinced that I have "gone religious." Pioneer Square is responsible for the mood. I walked through it to-day on my way from work. Au revoir. MIMI.

NONAGERARIAN HAS BIRTHDAY

MRS. ANNE TAYLOR

Congratulations and good wishes from a wide circle of friends are being tendered to-day to Mrs. Anne Taylor, who is celebrating her ninety-first birthday to-day at her home, 1001 Yale Street, Oak Bay. Born in Oldham, Lancashire, England, on June 22, 1841, Mrs. Taylor came to Canada with her husband, the late R. R. Taylor and their family of eleven children in 1888, settling in Winnipeg. After twenty years in that city they moved to Victoria in 1908. Mr. Taylor predeceased her in 1921, and she has seven children living, and fifteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild. The years have dealt kindly with Mrs. Taylor and she is still active and enjoying good health and takes a keen interest in affairs of the day. Until two years ago she made frequent trips to Winnipeg to see her children and grandchildren.

Victoria Ladies' Choir Presents
Gift To Leader

The Victoria Ladies' Choir enjoyed a picnic supper at the Japanese Tea Gardens yesterday evening as a wind-up of the season's activities. About forty members and friends sat down at 6.30 o'clock to a most delightful repast after the singing of the choir chorale. Following the supper the gathering engaged in a sing-song.

Mrs. H. A. Beckwith presided at a brief business meeting, during which Mrs. O. McNeill was elected soprano representative to the music committee by acclamation. Following this, Mrs. Beckwith, with a few well-chosen words, presented Mr. Ira Dilworth, conductor, with a golf bag as a token of appreciation from the members of the choir. Mr. H. A. Beckwith was then called upon to make a presentation to Miss Olive Heale of a Venetian leather handbag. Miss Heale has given the choir two years of very faithful service in her capacity as accompanist, and the best wishes of the choir go with her in anything she may undertake in future.

Miss G. Beall then presented Mrs. Beckwith with a bouquet as a mark of appreciation of her capable management of the choir's affairs during the past year. The evening was brought to a close with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

PUPILS EXHIBIT
USEFUL ARTS

Domestic Science and Manual Work Shown at Sir James Douglas School

Tangible evidence of the excellent work accomplished in domestic science and manual training, in the city's schools was forthcoming at the Sir James Douglas School yesterday afternoon when a large gathering of parents and friends attended the exhibition of the work of these classes at the school. The principal, W. H. Wilson, welcomed the visitors and acted as chairman for the informal programme given by the students.

The girls of the domestic science class, under the direction of Miss Garnet, were attired in the dainty frocks which they have made as part of their training. In addition to several graceful dances and well-sung choruses, they presented a clever little play, which taught hygienic principles. The boys of the manual training class exhibited specimens of their work, which was much admired, many useful articles being made in workmanlike fashion.

Ladies of the Parent-Teacher Association of the school staged a successful silver tea in conjunction with the exhibition, the arrangements being in charge of Mrs. R. Crawford, convenor, assisted by Miss Moffatt, Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. Bowden and Mrs. Fuller, with Mrs. N. C. Fairweather at the receipt of customs. Six girls from grade six assisted in serving.

SISTER
KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY
There is a psychological something about the Sunday morning breakfast that has much influence upon family life. Other mornings breakfast must be eaten with one eye on the clock and the day's work uppermost in mind. Sunday brings the luxury of "time."

The table should be immaculate as to linen and china and it should be precisely arranged. This in itself gives an air of festivity. Then, if the menu includes some special dish particularly liked by all members, the setting is complete for a happy breakfast.

Many homemakers do make much effort to serve something extra for Sunday morning breakfast, so I am suggesting some menus which may help to take breakfast out of its every-day rut.

BREAKFAST NO. 1

Unhulled strawberries with mound of powdered sugar, ready-to-serve cereal with cream, scrambled eggs with mushrooms, reheated rolls with marmalade, milk, coffee.

Choose fine large berries and wash thoroughly. Spread on a platter to chill. Pack powdered sugar in a small cup or mold and turn out in the centre of a small table. Surround with berries.

SCRAMBLED EGGS WITH MUSHROOMS

Two cups mushrooms cut in pieces, 4 eggs, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 teaspoons flour, 4 tablespoons milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper.

Melt butter, add mushrooms and saute five minutes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and stir over fire. Stir lightly with a fork until thoroughly blended. Stir in milk and cook until thick and smooth. Add eggs and stir them quickly into the mixture. Cook slowly, stirring and lifting constantly with a spatula until mixture is firm. Serve at once with a garnish of watercress.

BREAKFAST NO. 2

Chilled pineapple juice with fresh lime juice, cereal cooked with dates, cream, eggs poached in milk, cinnamon toast, milk, coffee.

Toast must be hot and crisp. Mix 1 teaspoon cinnamon with 1 tablespoon sugar and sprinkle lightly over toast before serving.

BREAKFAST NO. 3

Cantaloupe with minced mint, ready-to-serve cereal, cream, creamed dried beef, Scotch scones, milk, coffee.

Cook dried beef in butter until the edges curl. Stir in flour and when thoroughly blended add milk, stirring until the sauce boils.

SCOTCH SCONES

Two cups flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1/4 cup cream (about).

Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Rub in butter or other shortening. Beat egg with cream. Make a well in the centre of the dry mixture and pour in egg and cream mixture. Stir until well mixed. The dough should be quite soft. If too stiff add more cream. Turn onto a lightly floured molding board and roll into a sheet about three-quarters of an inch thick. Cut in squares and prick with a fork. Bake in a quick oven for fifteen minutes. The temperature of the oven should be 425 degrees F.

prayer, followed by the Scripture reading by Mrs. A. M. Holder. Mrs. J. A. Scott read a letter giving a brief cross-section of the day's activities of a missionary's wife. Mrs. Church's group then took charge of the meeting. Rev. J. H. A. Warr gave a delightful solo, "Flee As a Bird," accompanied by Mrs. W. C. Hembroff at the piano. Mrs. H. J. Hated Children Better Off Than Offspring of Life-stealing Women Who Use Deceptive Cunning to Thwart Natural Lives of Sons and Daughters. Such Women to Blame for Present-day Weaklings

AMONG my correspondents is a poor little bewildered sixteen-year-old girl, who is having a lot of trouble with her mother and does not know what to do about it.

"I have set my heart on graduating this term," she writes, "but I am afraid I will not be able to do so because my mother interferes so much with my studies. She wants me to give all my time when I am out of school to her and when she sees me with a book in my hand she begins to cry and say that I think more of my old Latin and mathematics than I do of her and that if I loved her I would want to talk to her instead of studying."

"If I shut my door she accuses me of trying to separate myself from her and she goes around for days and days looking as if her heart would break and if I do not let her tuck me in bed as if I were a baby she sobs and says that she had better die now that her own child does not care anything more for her."

"Now I do love my mother dearly and try to please her but I cannot just sit in her lap the balance of my life. Can I? And that is just about what she wants me to do."

"And mother is always telling me how much I owe her and how grateful I should be for all she has done for me and how she took care of me when I was a baby and nursed me when I was sick and how many sacrifices she has made for me and how I never can repay her for all she has sacrificed, but, lands sake, Miss Dix, I did not ask to be born, and after she brought me into the world it looks to me as if she owed me something."

"Now I have told mother a million times how grateful I am to her and how much I appreciate her and love her but that does not satisfy her. She still weeps and claims that I do not care whether she is alive or dead and I do not know how I can convince her of my affection and make her happy. What must I do?"

Keep on telling her what she wants to hear. That is the only way you can have any peace with her. All of her tears and reproaches and martyr poses are just so many cowardly weapons with which she is trying to force protestations of devotion from you. But as soon as you are grown and able to stand on your feet free from her as you would from a deadly enemy, for she is determined to rob you of everything in life that is worth having.

A good mother is the greatest blessing that any child can have. A possessive mother is the greatest misfortune that can befall it. For the possessive mother does not scruple to enslave their ambitions and distort their lives and to break their hearts and to wreck their happiness.

This sounds like a hard indictment of motherhood and, thank God, it is not true of most mothers. But every one of us can point you to a dozen gentle, sweet-faced, saintly-looking mothers who have committed these crimes against their children and who, ironically enough, consider themselves good mothers.

We know mothers who, because they want to keep their children dependent on them and always looking up to mother, try to force a perpetual babyhood upon their offspring. They do all in their power to keep their children from growing up and becoming self-reliant men and women. They never let them use their own judgment. They never permit them to stand alone. They never let them have any freedom of thought or action. They want them to go through the world hanging on to mother's hand.

All about us we see the results. Middle-aged men and women who have no decision of character, who are weaklings who have to cling to some stronger person for support. Husbands and wives who are always running back home to mother to tell her their troubles and ask her advice. Why, not long ago a woman of seventy told me upon the death of her aged mother that she had never even bought a pocket handkerchief for herself or made a single move on her own initiative. Mother had always done everything for her.

We know plenty of other mothers who have tied their children so firmly to their apron strings that they could not break away to go where fortune awaited them. John had a fine offer to go into business in a distant city, but mother could not bear to be parted from him and she wept and clung to him until he gave it up and settled down to a life of drudgery on the farm or in a little town where there was no opportunity for advancement.

Sally had a God-given talent that would have brought her fame and wealth, but to have developed it, she would have had to leave home and mother, and mother worked upon her sympathies and sense of duty by moaning out that she was old and would not live long and how lonely and forlorn she would be without her, until Sally sacrificed her ambitions and the career she might have had and became a slave to mother, who lived on for the next thirty or forty years, until it was too late for her to do anything.

And look at the hosts of mothers who wring promises from their children never to marry as long as they live. Look at the dedicated old maids and old bachelors we all know darning attendance on selfish old women who tyrannize over them and rule them with a rod of iron!

Mother has had her own life. She has had love and romance and marriage and children, who at least brought her enough pleasure for her to want to keep them to herself, but she ruthlessly denies all of these to her sons and daughters and condemns them to lonely and loveless lives for her own selfish gratification.

And the possessive mother does all of this in the name of love. It would be a better and a kinder thing if she hated her children.

Indian Adventure Stories

III—AN HOUR OF FEAR

In the year 1812, Minor Spicer lived in a little house on the southern shore of Lake Erie with his wife and children. There were two other white families nearby, but a band of Indians could have overcome the little settlement.

One dark night a call came from the front of the cabin. Spicer picked up his rifle and opened the door. There stood an Indian, who had dismounted from a horse he had been riding. Over the back of the horse was a slain deer.

"Injun tired, cold, hungry," said the stranger.

Spicer thought that the Indian might possibly be a spy, but he invited him to spend the night in the cabin.

After tying his horse and unloading the deer, the Indian entered. He could speak few English words, but he pointed to the deer and then to the fire.

"He is hungry," said Mrs. Spicer, and she prepared a slice of venison for the guest. He accepted it with seeming pleasure, but he ate only a little of it. The rest he slipped into a bag.

"Ha!" thought Spicer. "He was only making believe that he was hungry. I will watch him closely to-night."

The Indian was told to lie down on a couch, and Spicer went to bed in a room which opened into the one with a fireplace. The white man had his musket close to his bed.

The Indian lay down as if to sleep, but in a little while he got up again. In the loft above were the children, slumbering peacefully. Spicer was breathing deeply, but he was only pretending to be asleep; he was watching closely.

In a moment, the Indian picked up his scapling knife, and started across the room. Meanwhile Spicer reached for his musket, and was just taking aim when he saw what the other was doing—cutting a piece of meat from the slain deer! The meat was taken to the fireplace and held over the embers until cooked. Then with smacking lips, the Indian ate it and went back to the couch to sleep.

"Injun tired, cold, hungry," said the stranger

Years later, the Indian paid another visit to the Spicers. He could now speak better English, and he explained that the meat which Mrs. Spicer had cooked for him had been salted too heavily. He had not wished to hurt her feelings by telling her that it was not good.

Horoscope

THURSDAY, JUNE 23, 1932

According to astrology this is rather an uncertain day, but still the stars promise much of pleasure to inhabitants of the Earth.

There is a sign that is most fortunate for persons in places of the Sun. To him that hath much shall be given under this way. There should be good luck for all who seek positions of trust or look for profitable employment to-day.

Although there is an aspect tending to encourage discontent the summer is likely to bring many benefits, it is foretold. Workers are rather well directed. Farmers should have a favorable season, if the predictions of astrologers are correct.

This is a fortunate way for gardening and women should improve each shining minute in planting and transplanting. Deception may be prevalent at this time when an aspect is supposed to inspire intrigue and double-dealing. Political aspirants should beware of false friends, the stars declare.

For those who travel on the ocean there is a sign presaging delays or minor disappointments to-day, but tourists will multiply this month.

Uranus is believed to mold the thoughts of many in distorted shapes at this time. Unrest and discontent should be sternly repressed by those who suffer from pessimism. There is a sign believed to symbolize a turning over of existing policies and conditions in American life. A general leveling of class distinction is preached and extraordinary prosperity is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year marked by big experiences and ultimate success. Children born on this day probably will have strong artistic sympathies and many varied interests in life. The subjects of this sign usually have many friends. Personal magnetism is likely to be strong.

CHILE JUNTA HEAD IS ILL

Santiago, Chile, June 22.—Carlos G. Davis, president of the ruling junta, was ill to-day with grippe. The attack overtook him yesterday in the midst of a critical political situation.

Although disorders in which five persons were reported slain and many injured apparently had subsided, the socialist-junta outlawed communists agitation by decree, with exile, imprisonment or fines as the punishment for attempts to foment trouble.

LOCAL POLICE GIVEN PRAISE

Mayor Lauds Efficiency of Force After Inspection at Headquarters

Mayor Leeming, chairman of the Board of Police Commissioners, paid high tribute to the efficiency of the Victoria force under Chief Thomas Heatley following an inspection of the men at headquarters yesterday afternoon by himself and Judge P. S. Lampman. Magistrate George Jay was unable to attend owing to a court hearing at the time.

"Due to the vigilance of the force," said the mayor, "the crime record in Victoria is at a lower ebb than for years. I feel that this is a result of increased efficiency in the policing methods."

He congratulated the men on the smart appearance of their new summer uniforms, making a special reference to those of the inspector and the chief, which have been considerably changed in design.

"The citizens are deeply indebted to their police force," he added. "In times of stress like this the members of the force are called upon to face a far more difficult situation than usual. It is also gratifying to know the quick apprehension of malefactors and I am sure our citizens feel that the city is well guarded and that everything is well taken care of. The citizens can feel assured of the loyalty of the men."

He referred briefly to the fact that it had been necessary to cut the wages of the policemen in line with other civic employees this year, outlining the financial stringency which had forced this move.

Judge Lampman associated himself with the complimentary remarks of the mayor and remarked that he had felt grave apprehension recently when Detective Walter Calwell had been wounded while on duty and he was glad to see him about again.

Chief Heatley replied, thanking the commissioners for their remarks and giving an assurance the men would always do their best to protect the city's rights and interests in the performance of their duty.

The inspection occupied some time, all the men appearing on parade in the recreation hall at headquarters. The mayor and commissioners were introduced to all members of the force, including the plain-clothes squad and policewomen.

The commissioners afterwards inspected the station from top to bottom, visiting the men's quarters, court-room, offices and cells. A look over the rolling stock and armaments of the force concluded the inspection, after which a meeting of the commission was held in Mayor Leeming's office.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

In "The Middle Watch" Opening Here
This Evening In Aid Of Hospitals

"The Middle Watch," one of the recent hits on the London stage, will open in Victoria this evening at the Empire Theatre. There will be performances also Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, with a special matinee Saturday afternoon commencing at 2.15 o'clock. It is being given by kind permission of the command-in-chief of the Equimait Naval Barracks and the proceeds will be divided between the Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals. Above, from left to right, are Able Seaman W. Dunkley, who will be an able seaman; S. P. Birley, who is Capt. Randall; Miss Margaret Torrible, who plays the role of Fay Eston; Lieut. J. C. Hibbard, who is the flag lieutenant; Mrs. F. L. Houghton, who is a guest; George Phillips, who takes the part of Admiral Hewitt; Lieut-Commander F. L. Houghton, who is Ah Fong; Miss Dorothy Crump, who is Nancy Hewitt; Lieut-Commander W. J. R. Beech, who is Commander Baddely; Miss Lucy Bryden, who is Mary Carlton; Paymaster Lieut-Commander H. G. Oswin, who is Capt. Maitland; James McGrath, who is Marine Ogg; Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, who has the role of Lady Hewitt, the admiral's wife, and Lieut-Commander H. Kingsley, who is Corporal Duckett. When the picture was taken Miss Vivian Coombe, who is playing Charlotte Hopkinson, one of the chief comedy parts, was not present.

Daily Health Service

Women More Susceptible
To Headaches Than Men

Migraine Is Often Due to Heredity and Diet
By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN

That type of sick headache commonly called migraine is believed by many persons to be a hereditary condition more likely to occur in women than in men.

Since this point of view was first advanced around 1893, many investigators have sought a scientific basis for the contention. This caused Dr. William Allan to make a special study of the matter. He now makes available the results of these studies.

Out of 545 persons suffering with headaches of the migraine type, women were found to have the condition two and one-half times as frequently as men. Some investigators have found the proportion as high as five times as frequent in women as in men.

It was thought that possibly women were more likely to seek a physician for this condition than did men, but an examination of the records of thousands of cases coming to a physician's office indicated approximately equal numbers.

Out of 105 men it was found that fifty-six gave a history of periodic headaches of this type; 90 per cent.

stated that their parents had similar histories, and in 73 per cent

the headaches had started before the age of twenty-one. Among the ninety-two wives of these men there were fifty who had a history of headache, and in 90 per cent of these women

there was a record of similar headaches

in the parent. In this particular group, therefore, the frequency of migraine in men and in women seemed to be the same, but a careful investigation showed that migraine is a more serious condition in women than in men.

In most instances women had headaches that lasted longer and they were nauseated much more frequently than were the men. It seems likely, therefore, that women go to the physician more often for this condition than do men, because of severity of the symptoms.

There have been various suggestions

as to the underlying basis of migraine.

It is recognized that heredity plays some part. However, the condition that is hereditary may be associated with some special anatomical development of the brain, of the glands of internal secretion, or of the nervous system.

In some instances, no doubt, headache of the migraine type is a manifestations of sensitivity to a foreign protein substance. Such sensitivity is, however, also hereditary to a considerable extent. In other words, it is likely that a number of causes acting together produce this condition, rather than a single cause for all cases.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Edmund Love owns a 1,200-acre ranch at Skyland, California. He has many cattle on the place, but his principal crop is grapes, most of the vines having been planted in 1870. They were imported from Spain and many are now eighteen inches thick at the base.

Love's latest Fox production is "Transatlantic," now playing at the Columbia Theatre. His supporting cast includes Lois Moran, John Halliday, Jean Harlow, Greta Misen, Myrna Loy and Earle Foxe. William K. Howard directed.

Sweets and Apples

Next time you plan sweet potatoes, try slicing some green apples into the pan you candy your potatoes in. They give the potatoes a lovely taste and are excellent with pork.

"FORBIDDEN"
AT DOMINION

Barbara Stanwyck and A. Menjou Have Leading Roles in New Picture

Drama with a strong note of tragedy, superb acting of the principals make "Forbidden" the feature attraction now showing at the Dominion Theatre one of the different pictures of the season. Frank Capra, the capable and successful director of "Forbidden," has chosen for the locale a vacation ground in Havana. New York reviews refer to the picture as a sparkling gem so skillfully does it juggle moods creating an emotional response that is exactly what audiences want in entertainment. Barbara Stanwyck and Adolphe Menjou have the leading roles.

NAVAL COMEDY
ACTED TO-NIGHT

First Performance of "The Middle Watch" To Be Attended By Lieut.-Governor

No efforts have been spared to obtain perfection of detail in producing the naval comedy "The Middle Watch," which will be staged by the Naval Dramatic Society for the first time to-night in the Empire Theatre, commencing at 8.15 o'clock. Performances will be given to-morrow, Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon.

The scene of the play is laid on a British cruiser and special scenery depicting the captain's lobby and the interior of the captain's cabin has been faithfully reproduced and set up at the theatre under naval supervision. "The Middle Watch" is being presented with permission of Commander V. G. Brodeur, R.C.N., and under the management of James McGrath, and proceeds will go to the Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals.

His Honor Lieutenant-Governor J. W. Fordham Johnson, has kindly extended his patronage and will be present at the opening performance to-night, which will also be attended by Commander V. G. Brodeur, R.C.N., Commanded-in-Chief of the Victoria Harbour, Esquimaux, and Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, D.O.C., Military District No. 11.

ROMANO THEATRE

The "inside" story of the baby-faced ladies who prey upon the loneliness of wealthy men is being shown at the Romano Theatre to-day. Radio Pictures' "High Stakes" takes this situation and makes of it an exciting, swift melodrama, thrilling yet amusing in the situations it depicts. Lowell Sherman, gay Lothario of many stage and screen successes, is the star-director of this latest pictorial achievement. "High Stakes" follows the countrywide praise lavished on him by critics everywhere for his performance.

CAPITOL THEATRE

A sheep in wolf's clothing was discovered in Hollywood recently. Reversing the ancient parable, Pat O'Brien, who is portraying a double-dyed villain in the picture drama "The Strange Case of Clara Deane," which is the Capitol Theatre's feature to-day, stepped out of character during the filming of the picture and became a good Samaritan.

When four-year-old Cora Sue Collins, who plays the daughter of O'Brien and Wynne Gibson finished a rehearsal recently, Pat presented her with a complete outfit of clothing. True to her feminine nature, Cora was as proud as a peacock. O'Brien's act was a gesture of appreciation from one artist seeking to help another on the stony road to success. The extreme youth of the actress made the presentation of the gift possible. The non-observance of conventions was not noticed by the recipient.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Paul Cavanagh, handsome leading man of the movies, has the leading role opposite sophisticated Kay Francis at the Playhouse Theatre this week in Radio Pictures' drama, "Transgression." Cavanagh has had an interesting career. He was born in Chislehurst, Kent, England, and graduated from Cambridge.

He traveled around on the cheap quite a bit and finally landed in Canada. He chopped wood in the forests of Quebec, worked on farms in Ontario and then joined the Northwest Mounted Police, with which famous body he served several years. Then he became a lawyer. After practicing ten years, he just drifted into pictures.

Great Bradman and Kippax Stars In Win At Vancouver

Former Carries Bat for 110 Runs in 102 Minutes Before Retiring Unbeaten; Kippax Puts on 74 in Stylish Exhibition; Australians Score 287 for Six Wickets; Mainland Stars Dismissed for Small Total of 64; Mailey Takes Seven Wickets for 24 Runs

Vancouver, June 22.—Showing decided superiority with bat and ball over a Mainland League all-star eleven, the touring Australian cricket team won their first match at Brockton Point here yesterday afternoon by a wide margin. After waiting all morning for the rain to cease a start was finally made at 2.15 o'clock and in a slight drizzle the Australians went to bat and hit up 287 runs in two hours and a half for the loss of six wickets. They then dismissed the mainland batsmen in an hour for sixty-four runs.

Don Bradman, world wonder batsman, was the leading light in the visitors' innings, hitting up 110 runs in 102 minutes before retiring unbeaten. He did not give the semblance of a chance until he had made 108 and then only in trying to force the pace.

Kippax, another test match player, gave a stylish display in making 74 during an hour and a half's stay at the wicket.

McCabe, still another test match star, compiled 58 in thirty-eight minutes.

MAINLANDERS HELPLESS

The mainland batsmen could do but little with the bowling of Mailey and Fleetwood-Smith. The former secured seven wickets for twenty-four runs and the latter three for twenty-two. The tourists will play a selected fifteen to-day and to-morrow will conclude their appearance here with a game against a like number of better.

Richardson and Nutt opened the Australian innings, Rivers bowling the first over to the visiting captain. Dobbie bowled at the other end, and with only five runs on the board Richardson tried to drive the fourth ball of his second over failed to get hold of it properly and skied it into the slips for Bullen to make a neat catch. Bradman came in to the accompaniment of cheering all round the ground, but Rivers and Dobbie

Toronto Fans In Storm Of Protest

Toronto, June 22.—Fate fight fans swamped the telephone switchboard of Toronto newspapers with indignation calls when news spread that Jack Sharkey had out-decided smiling Max Schmeling for the world heavyweight boxing crown in New York yesterday evening.

The Mail and Empire says its switchboard was jammed for hours with the greatest barrage of protest calls in its history.

SWIM STARS IN TRAINING

"Boy" Charlton, Duke Kahanamoku and Helene Madison Now in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, June 22.—Although the swimming events of the Olympic games are almost two months away, Los Angeles took on the aspect of an aquatic mecca to-day with many of the world's greatest stars, past and present, here in training.

A. M. "Boy" Charlton, Australia's great freestyle expert, and Duke Kahanamoku, Hawaiian star of yesterday, arrived yesterday on the same boat, with the same end in view—the Olympic games championships. At the same time, out of the north-west came Miss Helene Madison, Seattle, applicant for untold U.S. and world's freestyle records.

Along with Charlton, and the track stars of Australia's Olympic team which arrived yesterday were Noel Ryan, freestyle swimmer, and three women stars, Frances Bull, Bonnie Mealing and C. Dennis. Miss Mealing is considered to be one of Miss Madison's chief competitors for freestyle honors.

THE FIGHT BY ROUNDS

A round-by-round description of the Schmeling-Sharkey fight follows:

ROUND ONE

Lean and browned, Schmeling dashed into Sharkey who met him with a short left hook flush to the jaw. Sharkey bowed coolly away as Max rushed in with a right to the body. Standing straight up, forsaking his former crouching style, Max matched left jabs with Sharkey, but he landed only one punch to the head as Sharkey dodged his face with half a dozen lefts. Schmeling shot a short right to the head and the crowd roared as Sharkey dodged away. Jack jumped in and smashed the German about the body with both hands and then lifted his left sharply to the head. Schmeling bowed neatly, far different fighter from the man Sharkey was overpowering for three rounds two years ago, but Jack flung a hard right to the head through the champion's defence as the bell rang.

ROUND TWO

ROUND THREE

Sharkey opened up a trifle but missed with a long right and as Schmeling tried to cut loose with both hands Sharkey moved under the punches. They were both extremely cautious, Sharkey feeling his way with left jabs to the head, jabbing with his right and trying to land left hooks to the chin as they came together. Schmeling drove a short right to the chin as he clubbed at each other, head in a corner but Sharkey drove him out with a left hook to the body. Sharkey smiled as he continued to box carefully, bobbing under Schmeling's hands. He nailed the champion with a straight right but as Max opened up with both hands he leaped back boxing carefully. Max tore in on him with a left hook to the head and a short right to the ear but Sharkey was away again at the bell.

ROUND FOUR

Sharkey came out even more cautiously for the round that proved to be a tactical one. He dodged a right high to the champion's temple but caught a short right to the chin. As they came in close Schmeling's left hand while Sharkey's right hand was busy with both hands. The dark, sturdy German shook Sharkey's head back with a left jab and Sharkey peddled backward carefully. He stopped to slip a left hook, of the German's body but Max nailed him twice with lefts to the head as they battled at close quarters. Another right bounced off Sharkey's chin after he had driven the German to the ropes with a left hook to the head. Sharkey ducked a right but Max ducked under his left hand and dropped another short right to Sharkey's chin as the bell rang.

ROUND FIVE

There was not a mark on either warrior as a result of the battling. Max flung a short right into Sharkey's head and they went back to jabbing. Twice Sharkey pulled back from the champion's left hand but Sharkey's right hand to Max's body. Boxing beautifully, Sharkey stabbed the German's head, hooked a left to the jaw and a right to the body as Max tore on him. Schmeling drove Sharkey to the ropes with his first sustained attack, whipping a volley of lefts and rights to the head and forcing Jack to hold. Sharkey steadied again, jabbed the champion away and smashed his body with both hands. A right uppercut hook Schmeling but he bounced back to hammer Sharkey's head with both hands as the bell stopped the first real rugged punching.

ROUND SIX

The scene of cautiousness Sharkey stabbed at Schmeling's chin with a right hand like a teacher in the gymnasium school as he popped Schmeling's head and stepped in with left hook to the body. Max drove Sharkey to the ropes with a left jab and Jack leaped into him and ripped both hands to the champion's head. Schmeling followed him across the ring, his right caught Sharkey's chin, without venom, Sharkey shot a right and left to the head and rattled the champion's teeth with an uppercut as the crowd cheered him on. But Jack went to box carefully, stabbing with his left, shooting a neat left hook to the jaw as the gong sounded.

ROUND SEVEN

Sharkey was fighting the battle he promised, cold and deliberate. As Schmeling wove in he tipped the champion around with a right to the shoulder and beat his head with short lefts. They stabbed at each other with lefts until Sharkey smashed a right to Schmeling's head. The German suddenly spurred, driving Sharkey to the ropes with a half dozen clean rights to the head. Sharkey seemed to waver a moment but he fought his way clear with a right to the head and went back to jabbing lefts with the champion. They jabbed each other around the ring. Both landed until Sharkey opened up with a left hook to the chin and a fine uppercut that shot Schmeling's head back. They traded short rights to the head at the bell.

ROUND EIGHT

Sharkey stabbed methodically at the German's head and dropped inside with right to the body. Schmeling marched forward as he had done from the start and shot a nice right to Sharkey's chin as the American backed into the ropes. Schmeling hooked Sharkey's head twice as Jack forgot to keep his hands up pulling away from a dual of close quarters. Twice Schmeling drilled his right to Sharkey's head but the American did not seem to mind. He continued to step away, stabbing with his left as he went and they both landed right crosses by way of variation. A swelling started on Sharkey's left cheek when Schmeling had been landing his short rights. They were stabbing again with lefts when the gong sounded.

ROUND NINE

Sharkey backed carefully away from the German as they again popped their lefts to the mouth. Schmeling's nose twice stopped Sharkey's left. Both missed fights but Schmeling was the quicker with his left hook to the chin. Schmeling bobbed in front of Sharkey as Jack swung both hands to the head but the German came out of the weave with a fine right to the jaw. Jack backed away, Jack's man target with a pair of left jabs and a neat left hook but again Schmeling drove over a right to the jaw. Sharkey got in two right uppercuts along the ropes but again the smiling German, who seemed to be enjoying it all, rammed lefts and rights into Sharkey's head. He bounced more right to the jaw and he danced cheek as the gong sent them to their corners.

ROUND TEN

Schmeling marched out as fresh as when he started, while Sharkey was cautiousness itself. The German edged in on him. Jack stuck his left in Schmeling's face, but Max caught him and drove him to the ropes with a harsh left hook to the head. Stung, Jack whaled back with both hands and forced the German to wrap both hands around his head in order to escape the storm. They jabbed carefully for a moment, and again Schmeling ripped in with a left and right to the chin. They stabbed in unison, both landing, and then went to the other extreme by swapping long rights to the head. Schmeling stung Sharkey with another straight right to the jaw, and he danced jauntily to his corner as the bell rang.

ROUND ELEVEN

Sharkey came out a bit more forcefully and landed a right to the head. He started to lead, forced Schmeling back with left jabs but as they locked together both swung rights to the head. Schmeling pawed a left down times at Schmeling's head but the German bobbed low, came up inside and whipped both hands to Jack's chin. Schmeling missed a left, Sharkey flung a left to the jaw and ducked a right to the body but Max stormed right back at him hooking both hands in short arches to the head. Sharkey's left eye was swelling rapidly as Schmeling again pierced a storm of left jabs to bob up inside with a two-fisted head attack. Sharkey was jabbing carefully at the bell.

ROUND TWELVE

They fell immediately in close to hammer each other on the body with one arm free. Max chased the challenger into a corner and whipped both hands to the head, but they came out again swapping jabs. Sharkey's left eye was closing fast but he continued to stab at Schmeling's face, until he found an opening for a short right to the chin. Schmeling was crowding in but Sharkey picked off his left and flung a right into the German's head. They swapped right crosses to the head, but again Max stepped in, slung a half into the body and the American's bad eye. They mauled in close quarters, neither landing heavily until Sharkey decided to box again and right hooked his left into the body when the gong sounded.

ROUND THIRTEEN

ROUND FIFTEEN

Sharkey's seconds worked frantically upon him to bring him out for the final round. He ripped in with both hands, but the German met him with a two-fisted volley and the American was forced to break ground. Sharkey ripped into the German again, hammering both hands to the body, but again he was first to stop, as the stolid champion, fresh and eager, hammered Jack's tired body. They locked heads and flashed both hands to the body, and then away to dance around the ring stabbing lefts. Sharkey nailed the champion on the chin with a right. Sharkey nailed the champion on the chin

"I'll tell you why I don't look as well dressed as other husbands!"

"All right. I agree I'm no Beau Brummel. And do you know why? It's these shirts you buy me. How can I look well-dressed when the collar points curl up around my ears—or the neckbands as loose as a horse collar? . . . Yes, I know you have to allow for shrinkage. But what happens then? After a couple of launderings, the cuffs come halfway to my elbows and I can't fasten the collar without a button hook. If you want me to look well-dressed then find me some shirts that really fit—and keep on fitting."

You'll find those shirts at the shop that carries Arrow Shirts. Arrow's own Sanforizing Process—the only process of its kind—guarantees permanent fit. A size 15 Arrow Shirt stays size 15 throughout its long and honorable career.

And you'll find too that Arrow Shirts are the best-fitting, best-looking shirts you've ever seen. The experience gained in making four billion collars gives Arrow Shirts that trim, smart fit about the collar that is the despair of other makers. The next time you're tempted by a "bargain" shirt, buy a real bargain—the Arrow Trump in white, stripes and plain colors at $1.95; Arrow Trump Youths', sizes 12 to 14½, at $1.55; or the Arrow Paddock in white and plain colors at $2.50. If it hasn't the Arrow Sanforized-Shrunk label, it isn't an Arrow Sanforized Shirt.

Empress of Canada Arrives From Orient and Honolulu With Large Passenger List

Nearly 100 passengers disembarked here yesterday afternoon from the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada when she docked at the Rithet piers at 3:30 o'clock from ports in the Orient and Honolulu. Most of these passengers were destined to the United States, and several made quick connections with the S.S. Princess Marguerite sailing at 5:30 o'clock for Seattle. Others are waiting over in Victoria a few days before continuing their voyage.

The Canada met off the West Coast of the Island, and this delayed her arrival here. Capt. A. J. Hailey, R.N.R., commander of the big ship, stated yesterday that other than the ship had a fine voyage all the way from Yokohama. She proceeded to Vancouver in the late afternoon and reached the mainland port before midnight.

There was a total of 345 passengers aboard the ship this voyage. Of these eighty-two first class were through from the Orient, thirty-five first class from Honolulu; fifty-six tourist class from the Orient, and fifty-eight tourist from Honolulu. Thirty-five passengers made the trip from Yokohama to Honolulu.

PRINCESS NORAH ON WEST COAST

On her first trip of the season to the West Coast of Vancouver, the C.P.R. steamer Princess Nora left from Victoria yesterday evening at midnight. She is expected to arrive at Seattle tomorrow morning, and will return to Victoria on Tuesday. The next sailing to the West Coast will be from Victoria on July 1 at midnight. The Princess Nora will return this week from a cruise to Alaska, in which service she has been all winter.

Thirteen-year-old Chicago Boy Going to South Seas This Evening

A thirteen-year-old youth, old in travel experience, who has been to the four corners of the earth, will be a visitor for a few hours in Victoria early this evening on his way to the South Seas aboard the liner Niagara.

He is Hartley de Gerald, son of John de Gerald, vice-president of the Peoples National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago. He arrived in Vancouver this morning over Canadian National lines. He has been on the go since he was six years old and makes all his trips unaccompanied and travels light. He had only a few pieces of baggage when he stepped off the train in Vancouver yesterday.

"I travel for education," he said in answer to a question. "My dad wants me to see the world, and believe me I am seeing it. I am very fond of traveling and find it very fascinating. I like to go to places and when I am at home in Chicago I plan to go on my next trip."

"Last year I went up through Edmonton to Waterways and from there to Alaska and spent much time within the Arctic Circle. That is a very interesting country and I hope to go back there again some day. I keep a diary of all my trips, and so far have run up to a total of about 50,000 miles."

"Next year I plan to visit Africa, as I have always wanted to see that place," he said.

"Do you figure on shooting lions there?" he was asked.

"Sure I will—with my camera," he smiled. "My camera is my best friend and companion while traveling."

TOURISTS AT ROYAL CITY

Visitors From England Taken on Extensive Sightseeing Drives in Fraser Valley

New Westminster, June 22.—New Westminster was taken today to the party of thirty-three visitors from Great Britain, who are touring British Columbia under the auspices of the Provincial government.

After spending two days in Vancouver and environs, inspecting the harbor, visiting Bowen Island and Wigan Island, the tourists are today having an opportunity to see the farms and industries of the lower Fraser.

The party was met in Vancouver this morning by Alderman J. J. Hume, president of New Westminster Board of Trade, and W. H. Keary, secretary. On arrival in New Westminster the visitors were taken to the lumber plant of the Canadian Western Lumber Company at Fraser Mills.

Proceeding to the Colony Farm, they had luncheon at Escondido Mental Hospital. After luncheon they were driven to the Maple Ridge district to inspect the strawberry-growing areas of the municipality. Plans were made to motor to the Fraser Valley, crossing the bridge at Abbotsford.

It is also intended to show the visitors the reclaimed Sumas area if time is available. The party will return to New Westminster and Vancouver on the south side of the Fraser.

Yesterday the visitors were guests of Vancouver Harbor Commission on a tour of the city harbor and the North Arm as far as Wigan Island. In tomorrow they will leave for Victoria to see the provincial government buildings.

Ex-cabinet Minister To Drive Locomotive

Hon. P. Heenan to Resume His Place in Cab on July 8 Out of Kenora

Montreal, June 22.—Hon. Peter Heenan, former Liberal Minister of Labor, is going back to overalls as a locomotive driver, and hopes to take the throttle July 8, the thirtieth anniversary of his arrival in Kenora.

"It is my trade, and a good one," he said here today. "I came from overalls, and I've always kept it in mind that one day I must go back to them. Because a man has been a cabinet minister is no reason why he should expect to be babied through life afterwards."

"Besides," he said with a smile, "I have a family to support."

"You know, driving a train is not like driving an automobile. It is a great thing to have the feel of the throttle—to know that you are responsible for the lives of hundreds of men, women, and children, at night when they're asleep."

The member of Parliament for Kenora-Rayn River explained his new work would not interfere with his parliamentary duties.

"With so many men unemployed," he said, "I shall find it easy enough to get leave of absence when I need it."

Railway engineers are not on salary, but paid by the trip, he added.

ENGLISH TEAM IS ANNOUNCED

Cricket Eleven to Meet All-India in Test Match Starting Saturday Selected

London, June 22.—The English team to meet All-India in a three-day test match starting at Lord's on Saturday was selected yesterday, with Douglas Robert Jardine, Surrey, prominently mentioned for the captaincy of the English team visiting Australia next year, as the captain. The English eleven includes Holmes and Sutcliffe, famous first-wicket partners of Yorkshire, who recently established a new world record of 555, and Robins, Hammond and Woolley, who were on the English team against Australia here in 1930.

The All-India team have been meeting with a fair degree of success in their matches with the county and university teams, and they have only the one scheduled test match. They are the first Indian team to visit England in twenty-one years and English cricketers already have a whole-some respect for the bowling of Amar Singh and the batting of C. K. Naidu and Wasir Ali.

The English team is as follows: D. R. Jardine, Surrey (captain); R. W. V. Robins, Middlesex; F. I. Brown, Surrey; Herbert Sutcliffe, Yorkshire; Percy Holmes, Yorkshire; Edward Paynter, Lancashire; William Voce, Nottinghamshire; W. E. Bower, Yorkshire; L. L. C. Ames, Kent; W. R. Hammond, Gloucestershire; F. E. Woolley, Kent, and G. A. Paine, Warwickshire (twelfth man).

WORST DECISION IN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, STATES W. M'GEEHAN

right-hand bats to the head started Sharkey's left eye dropping in the early rounds and closed it completely in the last three.

He missed a great many punches, short swings that Sharkey pulled away from as he concentrated doggedly on his plan of battle—jab, hook, counter and retreat.

That sort of milling made a fight in which there never was a really thrilling moment, never a touch of the dramatic and the spectacular that the faithful have come to expect of their heavyweight title title.

In the stretch it was Schmeling, and not the new champion, who seemed to be winning, as he plugged along, as fresh as though he had just been warming up for a dozen rounds.

Cleveland, O., June 22.—The third-place Washington Senators got revenge on Jack Russell yesterday for six victories he had won over them as a member of the Boston Red Sox, as they defeated the Cleveland Indians, 8 to 5.

The Senators scored five runs in the eighth, four off Russell before he was chased from the mound. Russell had won five games from the Senators last year and one this season.

and Carey hit him for a four and a two in the first over and then dispatched the first ball of his next over to the leg boundary. In trying to repeat the stroke, however, he was finely caught by Tolhurst on the boundary, and half the side was out for thirty-seven. Dobbie was quickly bowled by Mailey with a ball which broke right round his legs, the sixth wicket falling without addition to the total.

Two balls later Ivamy poked up a simple catch to Carey at slip off Mailey, but Johnston drove his first ball, a full toss, to the off boundary. Bullen, however, cocked up a delivery from Fleetwood-Smith into the safe hands of Mailey at slip with the total at forty-four, but Gillespie brought up the fifty with a mighty hit for six off Mailey. In jumping out to hit Fleetwood-Smith in the next over he missed the ball and Carter whipped the ball off to stump him easily.

Nine wickets were down for seventy-eight, but Peel drove the left-hander for a four and was then missed by McCabe, who dropped a catch after running backwards a short distance. The mistake did not prove very costly for Mailey bowled Johnston with a lovely ball which whipped in from leg and the innings ended with the score at sixty-four.

MAYOR KILLS TWO BANDITS

Chicago, June 22.—George Hahan, mayor of South Chicago Heights, Ill., a suburb of this city, to-day engaged three holdup men in a pistol fight when they accosted him on a highway, and killed one. Later he expressed belief his bullets had fatally wounded another.

Giving Her Credit
"Old Fellowes seems to be a remarkably good husband, doesn't he?" Brown remarked. "I mean—he's awfully generous to his wife, eh?"
"Oh, rather," Jones replied. "That man is willing to let his wife have anything that credit can buy."

DEATH SENTENCE GIVEN IN YUKON

Canadian Press

Dawson, Y.T., June 22.—Barney West, self-confessed slayer of Michael Eseney, was convicted of murder by a jury here yesterday and was sentenced to be hanged September 27.

The trial was held before Mr. Justice Charles D. Macaulay in the Territorial Court. Following conviction, when the judge in his closing remarks said nothing remained but for him to pronounce sentence of death, the prisoner replied, "Well, make it snappy."

Eseney was a retired miner, aged about sixty-five. He was known to have been in the habit of keeping sums of money in his cabin. West confessed, he had killed him on the night of April 30 by hitting him over the head with a bag of shot and a piece of lead pipe. He obtained $50. West is about fifty years old and has worked in the restaurant business. Charles E. Macleod was prosecutor and Albert R. Lane conducted the defence.

Have you ever held a
One-in-the-morning Conference with yourself?

If, like many other men, you have held many a one-in-the-morning conference with yourself, you know that it takes a lot of time, capital and "luck" to make money "easily". Records show that too many things may happen to upset the best laid plans.
Happenings of the past few years prove that it is of far greater importance to the average man to provide for himself and family a substantial estate now, plus the certainty of an income in later life, rather than take speculative chances.
"Certainty" is a better friend than "luck" and a Confederation Life policy, on the "Life Income" plan, provides for that "certainty" and guarantees the security of capital to your estate under all circumstances. Write for particulars of this Confederation Life Income plan and learn how easy it is to benefit by it.

The sharpest blade ever made GILLETTE BLUE SUPER- BLADE

now replaces the $2 Kroman blade at 1/2 the price

HERE is a real super-value in this day of sensational low prices. Gillette now offers the Blue Super-Blade—the sharpest blade we have ever manufactured—at half the price of the famous $2 Kroman DeLux Blade.* The Blue Super-Blade gives you shaving comfort impossible to describe. It is made in addition to and costs but a few cents more than the regular blade.

Made of blue steel with rustless finish—Blue Super-Blade is the product of a modern manufacturing method recently developed. It requires extra finishing operations and special tempering that assure a degree of perfection never before attained in razor blade production. The Blue Super-Blade is a distinctly special product made for men who demand super-quality. It is different in performance as it is in appearance. Blue in color and contained in a blue package, Cellophane wrapped, it is most easy to identify.

Try the Blue Super-Blade. Know what it means to shave with the sharpest blade we have ever produced. Buy a package tonight and enjoy a new thrill tomorrow morning.

*The Kroman's $2 price prevented the use of this excellent blade by thousands who appreciate extra quality. Development of a new and less expensive process now enables us to offer an even superior blade—the Blue Super-Blade—at half the price. Now everyone can enjoy super shaving performance.
